

Think Steel ♦ Use Steel

You Are Invited to the North Texas Integrated SteelDay Tour

Learn How The Pieces Fit Together

Through guided tours of four North Texas operations, learn about aspects of steel projects typically unseen during planning and construction, from the time sections are manufactured until they are prepared for site delivery.

This unique SteelDay event will take participants through a structural steel mill, a service center, fabrication operation and a galvanizing facility, giving a view of how to better utilize the resources available for efficient and ecologically responsible project construction.

Who's Invited

The North Texas Integrated SteelDay Tour is designed for Architects, Engineers, General Contractors and Students, though other construction professionals are welcome to register for this event.

This event is registered with AIA CES.
